“What I want to share, as a personal impression from these latest project activities, is that yes, as a country we do face many challenges, and many of us are tired of the invested efforts, unfulfilled dreams and promises, past and the SE road ahead. But what is stimulating, and opens up a space for reflection and joint work, is the collaboration at the local level, shared commitment, sharing of resources and capacities. In this regard, the project partners also recommended to do more local bonds and joint advocacy, common requests to municipalities, patience and endurance. We really do hope that “Social Economy without borders” project will open up new roads, remove motivational borders and create new friendships for stronger local and international SE system.” -stated Irina Janevska from ARNO.

Next project activities envisage study visits to Czech Republic, Hungary, International conference in Poland and production of online brochure with collected case studies from the project partners.
